MOOD MAKER

Your new favorite restaurant awaits you on the fifth floor of Hotel Palomar, where industrialism meets intimacy at Dirty Habit. Designed by Dawson Design Associates, this Hitchcock-inspired bar and restaurant offers seasonal dishes sure to always surprise your taste buds. Enjoy an evening out on the patio complete with lounge seating and fire fixtures to keep you warm on a breezy night. Wash down the popular fried lamb belly bao buns with shareable cocktail Get Me A Juice Box! This one-of-a-kind libation is served in a lunchbox with two canned beers, a hot cocktail and a bar snack. Cheers! dirtyhabitsf.com

ROOM AND BOARD

Escape the bustle of city life and head to the newest addition to San Francisco's boutique hotel collection: Hotel G. After a two-year renovation, this chic Geary Street hotel welcomes guests with an Art Deco façade and brass reception desks upon check-in. Retire to your quarters and lounge on Victorian settees or retreat to the powder room to discover custom bar pouches from local bag maker Strawfoot Handmade. So go ahead, indulge yourself at this quintessential retreat and uncover all there is to offer. hotelsanfrancisco.com

SWEET TOOTH

San Francisco is known for its ingenuity and inventiveness, hence Silicon Valley, but what about innovative chocolate? Movers, shakers and chocolate fanatics alike can rejoice with the arrival of TCHO, pronounced "choh." Recently relocating its factory to Berkeley, TCHO sources only the highest quality cacao beans, ensuring a delectable bite every time. If you can't decide which chocolate will satisfy your sweet tooth, ask creative culinary visionists, TCHOPros. In need of an ultimate sugar rush? Stop by for a factory tour. ## PICTURE PERFECT

What started as a college project to fix a world dominated by high-end galleries has quickly grown into a new leader in e-commerce art. Co-founders Alex Farkas and Stephen Tanenbaum have made it possible for anyone anywhere to own original artwork through UGallery, their San Francisco-based online art site. With more than 6,000 pieces of hand-selected, original works, you're sure to find the perfect piece. Be sure to click on The Showroom collection: a specialty shop of the curator's favorite picks.
